PLAN

OF THE AMERICAN ART-UNION.

The AMERICAN ART-UNION in the city of New-York, was incorporated by the Legislature of New-York, for the PROMOTION OF THE FINE ARTS in the United States.

It is managed by gentlemen who are chosen annually, by the members, and receive no compensation. To accomplish A TRULY NATIONAL OBJECT, uniting great public good with private gratification at small individual expense, in a manner best suited to the situation and institutions of our country, and the wants, habits and tastes of our people, the Committee have adopted the following PLAN:

Every subscriber of five dollars is a member of the Art-Union for the year, and is entitled to all its privileges.

The money thus obtained (after paying necessary expenses) is applied:

FIRST:—To the production of a large and costly Original Engraving from an American Painting, of which the plate and copyright belong to the Institution, and are used solely for its benefit.

Of this Engraving every member receives a copy for every five dollars paid by him.

Members entitled to duplicates are at liberty to select from the Engravings of previous years.

Whenever the funds justify it, an extra Engraving, or Work of Art, is also furnished to every member.

Every member also receives a full Annual Report of the Proceedings, &c., of the Institution.

SECOND:—To the purchase of Paintings and Sculpture by native or resident artists.

These Paintings and Sculptures are publicly exhibited at the Gallery of the Art-Union till the annual meeting in December, when they are publicly distributed by lot among the members, each member having one share for every five dollars paid by him.

Each member is thus certain of receiving in return the value of the five dollars paid, and may, also, receive a Painting, or other Work of Art, of great value.

THIRD:—The Institution keeps an office and free Picture Gallery, always open, well attended, and hung with fine Paintings, at 497 Broadway, in the City of New-York; where members in the City of New-York receive their Engravings, Paintings and Reports, and where the business of the Institution is transacted.

The business of the Institution out of the City of New-York is transacted by HONORARY SECRETARIES, who receive and remit subscriptions and deliver to the members in their vicinity the Reports, Engravings and Works of Art, after exhibiting them a few days—subject to which right they will be distributed. They are forwarded at the expense of the Institution, but at the risk of the Members.

The Institution also publishes semi-monthly, the plan, officers, purchases, &c., &c.

The following Engravings have been issued by the Institution:

1840. General Marion inviting a British Officer to Dinner.
1841. The Artist's Dream.
1842. Caius Marius, on the Ruins of Carthage.
1843. Farmer's Nooning.
1844. Sparking.
" The Escape of Captain Wharton.
1845. The Capture of Major Andre.
1846. Sir Walter Raleigh Parting with his Wife.

Persons desiring the back Engravings, may obtain them by multiplying their subscriptions: they will be entitled to one Engraving, and one share in the distribution, for every Five Dollars paid.

The number of subscribers for the year 1847 was...9,666.

The amount of receipts.....$48,733 91.

Two hundred and seventy-two Works of Art were distributed, besides two hundred and fifty medals in bronze, and fifty in silver. The head of ALLSTON, for this Medal, was modelled from Clevenger's bust, by P. P. Duggan, by whom also the reverse was designed and modelled. The medal was engraved and struck by C. C. Wright.

Each subscriber of 1847 will be entitled to two engravings, "The Jolly Flat-Boatmen," by Doney, from the painting by Bingham, and "A Sybil," by Casilear, from the painting by Huntington.

PROCEEDINGS

AT THE ANNUAL MEETING,

1847.

The ninth Annual Meeting of the AMERICAN ART-UNION, was held in the Broadway Tabernacle, in the City of New-York, on Friday evening, the 24th day of December, 1847. The chair was taken at 7 o'clock by PROSPER M. WETMORE, Esq., President of the Institution.

In calling the meeting to order, MR. WETMORE spoke as follows:

MEMBERS OF THE ART-UNION:—I have very great pleasure in meeting you at this anniversary. The operations of the year which closes to-night, have been eminently successful, and when the Report of the Committee of Management shall have been read, I am persuaded that you will join me in cordial felicitations upon the result of our efforts for the "promotion of the Fine Arts."

The total number of subscribers for the year 1846, was about 4,450, being an increase of something more than one-third beyond that of the preceding year. When the books closed at six o'clock to-day, they exhibited the noble aggregate of 9,666.

May I not congratulate you, and every friend of a National School of painting, and every lover of Art, on this auspicious result.

With a view to economy of time, I have made notes of the few observations which seem to me to be called for on this occasion. The topics which present themselves are numerous and interesting; if I should trust to the impulses of the moment, they might lead me to trespass too far on your patience. A large amount of business is before you, which must occupy the meeting until a very late hour, and it will be my duty so to dispatch it as not to detain you longer than is absolutely necessary.

It has been asserted that Republican Institutions are unfavorable to the cultivation of the Arts of design; that the influences of a free public opinion must of necessity be indicated in something "savage and wild," rather than in graceful forms and gentle outlines. The daily exhibitions of this Institution, the events of this night, are a complete refutation of such a charge. Let us look for a moment at facts within our knowledge. We need not go beyond the limits of our own city to find the evidence that the freest institutions ever formed, have had a tendency to expand the mind to its greatest limits and most natural action. It would indeed be strange if this were not so, for Art must flourish most when its wings are widest spread, and its ascent is unchecked by the shackles of any master.

I venture to assert, that in no modern city, has architectural skill developed itself with greater success, than here in our midst. The elegant private dwellings of our citizens—the magnificent edifices devoted to public purposes and religious worship, will compare favorably with the finest similar structures in any country.

The art long supposed to be lost, of glass-staining, recently revived with fresh brilliancy, has been introduced by our artists, and our noblest Cathedral Church bears witness of its beautiful appropriateness to the solemn purpose for which it is designed.

In works of gold, and silver, and bronze, our artizans have now no superiors; designs of beauty are traced with skill, and produced with unsurpassed effect.

In typography our editions equal the best specimens of any age, or country. The most elegantly printed and illustrated works appear constantly on the shelves of the publishers, to be transferred thence to our libraries and tables, appreciated by a discerning and refined taste.

Our engravers have made a rapid advance in their department, and the productions of the American burin are now the admiration of the world.

In the severe and noble art of sculpture, do we not vie with the proudest names of the classic ages? GREENOUGH, POWERS, BROWN, and CRAWFORD, stand at this moment in their profession, the "foremost men of all their time."

Surely, to this audience I need not speak in praise of the American School of Painters—of the mighty names which have passed away, never to be forgotten,—of WEST, TRUMBULL, ALLSTON, STEWART, INMAN, Need I remind you of those eminent men whom we have given up, that they might add the riches of their genius to the treasuries of Art in other lands?—of LESLIE, NEWTON, LEUTZE; or of those distinguished members of the profession, whose names and fame are interwoven with the story of American Genius and Art?—of VANDERLYN, SULLY, MORSE.

Can it be necessary that I should commend to your notice the works of that numerous body of competitors for distinction, who are steadily pursuing the path to fame and success, and whose talents and labor have assisted us to form the noble collection about to be distributed?

What could I say of the productions, instinct with life and beauty, of many of these masters of the American School, that is not more eloquently expressed on the living canvas with which they have decorated the walls of your own gallery?

And now, may we not justly claim that the American Art-Union has exercised a large influence in advancing the condition of Art, in raising the standard of public opinion and its appropriate criticism, and above all, in holding out to American Artists the certainty of reward for their toil, their study, and their care? The Art-Union dispenses its many thousand dollars annually among our native and resident men of genius, who thus stimulated to exertion, reap their full share of fortune and of fame.

But perhaps our most sensible impression is made on the public taste. In distributing throughout our extended empire these rare specimens of Art, we are sending abroad a living school of moral beauty, and accustoming the people to the contemplation of the sublime, the beautiful, the true. How many a virtuous and ennobling sentiment may be kindled up by the teachings of these silent missionaries of the atelier and the studio! Who does not perceive how certainly the public taste must be elevated and purified by these glowing lessons from the school of genius ?

Who that has visited the spacious gallery of this Institution, erected under your auspices, and sustained by your liberality, has failed to remark the effect of this popular exhibition upon the public mind ? Thousands of visitors are daily met within its walls, of every degree and condition, from the humble artizan fresh from his daily toil, the poor child of genius who comes perhaps to gather inspiration from the breathing canvas, to the educated and critical observer, who drinks in streams of pleasure from this fountain of the beautiful in Art.

How quietly, how subduedly, does the vast multitude gaze upon this imposing tapestry, woven at the easel, more rich and varied than the woof and web of even the Gobelin looms ! What a scene for the lover of his country and her institutions, to witness so universal an appreciation of Art, such a pervading interest in the productions of American talent !

And that stately gallery, with its fine collection of pictures and statuary, is free to all, free not merely to subscribers, but through your generosity, free to the world ; and the confidence reposed under such an entire absence of restrictions, so far from being abused, returns back to you strengthened with increased respect for genius, and a patriotic zeal in its support.

The management of an Institution like this is not free from cares, anxieties and disappointments. It would be in vain to hope that all the expectations which are formed of it can be realized : But in all the transactions of your Committee an earnest effort has been made to ensure justice and impartiality to all ; for its members have felt that your honor and theirs was equally involved in the rectitude of their conduct.

I cannot close these remarks without saying, that in the arduous and responsible duties of my station, I have received every assistance that could be rendered by my associates in the management ; but especially are my acknowledgments due to the able and indefatigable Chairman of the Executive Committee, Mr. Erastus C. Benedict, for his untiring devotion to the interests of the Institution.

I may perhaps be permitted to add, in conclusion, that I have watched, and aided as far as was in my power, the progress of this Institution, from its humble commencement nine years ago with a few hundred subscribers, to its present commanding position with nearly ten thousand. I am proud of it for the great good which it has already accomplished. I am proud of it as an Institution of the country which promises so much of good hereafter. I look at its present condition and contemplate its future probable destiny with feelings that I cannot describe. It has been not merely a fabric which its friends were desirous of erecting, but a deeply seated sentiment of the heart which they cherished.

Let the Art-Union live and flourish. With your continued confidence and generous support, it must live and flourish, and extend its benign influence, until from the remotest borders of our land shall come back thanks and blessings to those who have thus spread abroad the knowledge and the love of Art.

William J. Hoppin, Esq., from the Committee of Management, then read the Annual Report, as follows:

The Committee of Management of the American Art-Union, respectfully present to the subscribers the following Report of their proceedings during the past year:

The Committee have the gratification to state, that at no former period have the affairs of the Association been so prosperous. It has at length taken its place among those great institutions, the permanence of which is secured by the esteem and confidence of the people.

The number of subscriptions, which at the last anniversary was four thousand four hundred and fifty-seven, reaches this evening the sum of nine thousand six hundred and sixty-six, being an increase of five thousand two hundred and eight. The number of Works of Art purchased by us has augmented in a corresponding ratio. One hundred and forty-five paintings were allotted at the last annual meeting. On the present occasion more than two hundred and seventy-two paintings, a costly bas-relief, fifty medals in silver, and two hundred and fifty in bronze, will be distributed amongst the subscribers, to each of whom also, in the course of a few months, two well executed engravings will be delivered. This increase of expenditure has been justified by the great addition to our income. The Committee announce with pleasure, that in this youthful nation, which has been stigmatized with the reproach of being wholly devoted to the sordid pursuit of gain, there has been entrusted to their hands, for the support of the Fine Arts, in one year, the sum of more than forty-eight thousand dollars.

The operations of the Society also have been extended since the last Annual Report over a much greater surface. We are now represented in nearly every district of the country. One hundred and sixty-three additional Honorary Secretaries have been appointed, making the whole number of those officers three hundred and three. With them a constant communication is maintained, and to their zealous co-operation the prosperity of the Society is in a great degree to be attributed. The experience of this year fully confirms that of the last, as to the advantage of relying upon their services in preference to those of travelling agents.

This remarkable success could not have been obtained without unusual efforts. These efforts, in connection with the changes in our place of business, and the new arrangements consequent upon it, have added to our expenses. But it will be found, although these expenses have absolutely increased, that relatively to the income, they are not so great as in former years. The Treasurer's Report, which will be submitted to you, will render it unnecessary to enter into details here upon this subject.

Your Committee have felt themselves authorized by the increase of subscriptions, to extend the benefits of the Association to certain branches of Art which at present receive too little encouragement in America. They have therefore included in their purchases a bas-relief, in marble, which will add to the fame of the accomplished artist by whom it was produced. They have also caused a medal to be struck, the design and execution of which, they believe will be approved by the subscribers. In seeking for a name which they should commemorate by their first undertaking in this department, your Committee found no difficulty in selecting that of ALLSTON, which illustrates so conspicuously the History of Painting in America. They knew their constituents would participate in their own gratification in being able to make this earliest contribution to the noble art of Medallurgy, instrumental also in perpetuating the fame of one who united to great professional skill such lofty imaginative power, and whose genius is honored as well in the old world as in the new.

The Committee have purchased a few paintings in water colors, not so many as they would have been pleased to buy had a greater number been offered to them from which to make a selection. This beautiful branch of Art has found as yet but a small number of followers in this country. The increase of income will enable the Association in future to make it a particular subject of attention, and also to improve the annual collections in other ways, by the addition, for instance, of statuettes in bronze, and even of a few works in the highest walk of Sculpture. The only arrangement for the future which can be with certainty announced, is that in relation to the engraving for 1848. The Committee take pleasure in stating that a recent painting by Mr. HUNTINGTON, of "Queen Mary signing the Death Warrant of Lady Jane Grey, at the command of the Spanish Ambassador," is now being engraved by Mr. BURT for the subscribers of that year.

At the annual meeting in 1843, the Committee of Management were directed to procure an amendment to the Charter, which should provide for the extension of the term of the officers and Committee of Management to three years; the Board to be divided equally in number into three classes, one-third to be elected every year.—Another important amendment of our Charter having just at that time been obtained with some difficulty, it was thought best to delay the application for the proposed change, and the same was not made until the last session of the Legislature. An amendatory act has now been procured in accordance with the resolution of 1843, and which provides that the Committee shall consist of twenty-one members, all to be chosen at this present annual meeting, that hereafter one-third of the Board shall be elected every year, and that the officers of the Institution shall be appointed from and by the Board. A copy of this Act will be appended to the printed "Transactions."

Soon after the last annual meeting it was ascertained that a change of location would be rendered necessary by the building of a Theatre in the immediate vicinity of our rooms, and also that larger apartments were required for the exhibition of our pictures. It was found to be impossible to hire such accommodation as was needed. We were accordingly compelled to make an effort to erect a gallery for ourselves. A lease was obtained, upon advantageous terms, of two lots of ground, extending through from Broadway to Mercer street, in a more central position than the old establishment. On these lots a commodious structure has been built, embracing a gallery one hundred and fifteen feet in length, twenty-two feet in width, and sixteen feet in height, and also a convenient Committee room in the rear. The dwelling-house, which occupies the front of the lot on Broadway, has been altered so as to afford a spacious entrance to the gallery, and the rooms converted into stores and offices. The premises were taken at a rent of twenty-three hundred dollars, for ten years, with a right to purchase the fee. The improvements have cost about ten thousand dollars, a part of which amount has been advanced by the owner of the property, and the balance by two gentlemen of the Committee, who are at present the holders of the lease. It has already been ascertained, that the portions of the premises not occupied by the Institution, can be rented at such rates as will secure a considerable surplus, to be applied to the payment of the expense of building. It is now for the Association to decide whether it shall become the proprietor of the fee. The nett gain on the rents, the money received for catalogues, the interest which may accrue from funds, and the small deduction of twenty-five cents annually from each subscription, (being only five per cent., a mere commercial commission on the receipts,) will enable us to purchase the property, and pay for it without inconvenience. The Committee therefore recommend, that it be purchased, and that such provision be made for the payment.

If the erection of the new gallery be advantageous as an economical measure, it is still more beneficial when considered with reference to the cultivation of the Arts of Design in this community. In this respect your committee believe it is not extravagant to say, that its accomplishment marks an era, and that it will always be regarded as the most important step that has yet been taken in New-York, to increase the knowledge and elevate the taste of the people upon this subject. Since the eighth of October, when the room was first opened to the public, it has been thronged with visitors, to the number of several thousands every day. Among them there have always been many citizens of the laboring classes, to whom the expenditure required to visit other exhibitions, is an indulgence which they cannot conveniently afford. Your Committee have seen with great gratification these men, with their wives and children, quietlyand decorously availing themselves of the privileges of the gallery. Such sights have repaid a thousand fold whatever cost of care and anxiety the new arrangement has occasioned.—Without regarding the more profitable employment of time which these rooms afford in comparison with resorts of a bad or questionable character, the positive influence of the objects they contain must be in a great degree humanizing and elevating. And let us not forget also, that the beautiful in Art may bestow a cheering solace upon some who, being endowed with natural refinement of feeling, are nevertheless suffering the inexorable demands of poverty, or the coarse necessities of unrequited daily labor. It does not give the means to buy with, or the strength to toil with, but it adds to the cheerfulness with which the burden may be borne. To men pent up in the dark streets of cities, and deprived of the free air and bright sunshine of rural life, the painted canvas affords a substitute not wisely to be neglected, of the living landscape—a reflection, not always faint and without comfort, of the smile of God in nature. And it is not with the visit to the gallery that its benefits terminate. It begets tastes, simple and cheap in their gratification, which strengthen the domestic ties. It suggests employments which add new charms to home, however poor and scanty be the accommodation to which that sacred name is applied.

It may be extravagant to regard this gallery as an important means of public instruction. If it be not so now, however, it will certainly become so whenever our artists fully avail themselves of the advantages of the Art-Union, and treat a higher range of subjects than those which the majority of them have hitherto attempted. Art has peculiar methods of representing great sentiments and emotions, and the transaction of important events, which Literature cannot rival. Art was once the favorite instructor of the people.—There is no good reason now why she should be stripped of her functions. The invention of Printing, and the universal dissemination of Books, should not deprive her entirely of this office. She is beginning to resume it in part through the instrumentality of Wood-Engraving and Lithography. Let us hope that she will before many years appear in still brighter raiment among us—that she will clothe herself in somewhat of her ancient state, and surrounded again—it may be in this new gallery—with much of that grandeur of form and pomp of color in which she was once enthroned, teach us the impressive lessons of history and the sacred truths of religion.

The constitution directs that the Committee of Management should state in their report, the principles which have governed them in their selection of Works of Art. The appropriation of the money of the subscribers in these purchases, is of course the most important of all the duties of the Committee. In the discharge of it they do not pretend to have been infallible, but they claim for themselves the credit of having been cautious and impartial. The advice of professional artists might often have assisted them in their judgments upon particular works; and the exclusion by the charter of this class of persons from the government of the Institution, has certainly some disadvantages. But it must be obvious to all, that there are benefits in this provision which need not be stated here, and which quite outweigh any difficulties it occasions. And besides, the criticisms of artists are not always free from error. We find them sometimes radically opposed to each other in their opinions respecting the same picture, in which case one set of critics must certainly be in the wrong. We know, also, that they are frequently biassed by their own peculiar methods, and inclined to praise or blame another, according as he may have followed or rejected some favorite theory. There are no better judges than artists in deciding whether a technical difficulty has been overcome or not. But success in this does not by itself constitute a master. It is the character of the thought represented, the simplicity and directness with which that thought is expressed, which far more than any technical merit, determines the rank of the competitor. It is the quality of the incidents in the story which is to be told on the canvas—the humor or the pathos—the grandeur or the beauty of the idea—the truth to nature in the actions and characters described—that we should consider in making up our opinions, as much as the mere language of the narration, the tones and the tints, the glazing and the scumbling. Of all this a well instructed connoisseur can judge as well as an artist.

Your Committee have honestly and laboriously sought in their purchases, to discriminate in favor of works which united all these excellencies—those of conception and invention, as well as those of a more technical sort. Such pictures, however, are very rare, and those fastidious persons who complain that the Committee have purchased many which are wanting in several of these good qualities, seem to have a very limited knowledge of the present state of the Arts of Design in America. It would appear from the criticisms of these persons that master-pieces were—

> "Thick as autumnal leaves that strow the brooks

and that the Committee were only embarrassed by the richness and variety of the stock from which they made their selection. On the contrary, it is believed, that not a single picture of decided merit which has been offered to the Committee, has remained unpurchased by them, excepting only in cases where the rejection has been occasioned by the exorbitancy of the price demanded, or some other reason which would have been satisfactory to the most exacting of these cavillers. The inquiry should be, not whether the gallery may not contain several inferior works, but whether it does not represent fairly the present condition of American Art, and whether a better collection of new paintings could have been purchased in the country during the same period and for the same amount of money.

Your Committee cheerfully acknowledge that they have exercised in their judgment as much charity as possible. Mr. ALLSTON has said: "It was Coleridge that taught me this golden rule, 'never to judge of a Work of Art by its defects,' a rule as wise as it is benevolent, and one which, while it has spared me much pain has widened my sphere of pleasure." This sentiment has governed your Committee in their decisions. If they have seen indications of merit, they have endeavored to foster it, although it may have been accompanied by manifest faults. If they have observed in a picture traces of a disposition to study, and an evident improvement upon former efforts, they have paid a higher price for it. They have also sought to encourage the development of national character in the selection of subjects and treatment of them, and other things being equal, have given a larger sum for a work in which the artist has represented scenes and transactions which distinguish this country from all others, and which show for themselves that he has studied faithfully living nature around him, and not been contented with copying it, at second-hand, out of the productions of foreign painters. There are several examples of merit of this sort in our present collection, the authors of which this Association may take to itself the credit of having brought into notice and established permanently in the good will of the whole country.

In resigning their trust into the hands of their successors, your Committee beg leave to say, that the responsibility attending the management of the Art-Union is already very great, and is becoming greater every day. It will soon possess the power to do more good or harm to the cause of Art in America, than any other society or body whatsoever. It is no longer a feeble club of individuals of slender resources and questionable permanency. It is something else than a mere lottery. Its officers have higher duties to perform than to procure agreeable prizes and to superintend a raffle. Neither is it an asylum for broken down picture-makers—a refuge where those poor limners who have not courage and strength enough to knock directly at the door of the public heart, may pick up a precarious subsistence by means of intrigue and favoritism. Instead of occupying this insignificant position, it is fast becoming one of those great institutions which influence the character and manners of the whole nation. It is the steward of large amounts committed to its hands, by the most intelligent and respectable citizens throughout the length and breadth of the country, to be expended freely in operations which, without departing from its own peculiar plan, will best enable it to elevate and sustain American Art. And this plan is so happily accommodated to our republican institutions, and to the equality of fortunes amongst us, that it is reasonable to predict the increase of this income, and that there will shortly be at the disposal of the Committee a yearly sum of at least fifty thousand dollars.

In this city the interest felt in the operations of the Society is so lively and so widely diffused, that we may almost depend upon this alone to sustain us. The number of our subscribers here has increased to more than thirty-six hundred. Here stands our gallery, with open doors, and upon these walls many thousands of people see the only pictures which they ever see, and from them receive the only lessons of taste which they can ever obtain.

Beyond the city, the organization of our movements is daily improving. Honorary Secretaries are being constantly appointed in the more remote districts, and their offices become new centres for the diffusion of intelligence and enthusiasm in matters of Art. Our circulars, reports and engravings penetrate everywhere. They may be found in the most secluded villages of the far West—in Canada—in Texas—in Mexico.

The simple statement of these facts and expectations is sufficient to show the responsibility which every one will assume who shall take part in the future management of the Art-Union. And your Committee beg leave respectfully to state, that in their opinion, not only is the responsibility of the Trustees of these ample means which have been so suddenly, as it were, provided for the encouragement of Art, grave and importunate, but that of the Artists—of the recipients of these means—is not less weighty. Whether the annual distribution of these large amounts of money will advance or retard the cultivation of true taste—will check or extend the diffusion of correct principles in matters of Art, will depend mainly upon these gentlemen themselves. Their part of the labor is more important than ours. It would be better that the number of our subscriptions should decrease than that the quality of their works should deteriorate.

In this connection it may not be considered presumptuous for your Committee, as the organ of an Institution which has expended many thousands of dollars in the purchase of paintings during the past year, to suggest that the certainty of remuneration is now so well established, that artists may venture to attempt higher subjects, and make more careful preparation than heretofore. Your Committee feel a warm admiration for Landscape Art, and a just pride in the successful cultivation of it by our painters, who, in this department, the difference of numbers being considered, are esteemed by many to be equal to those of any other nation. But there are certain other branches which demand higher powers of mind and hand, and upon which the fame of this country (if she shall ever attain fame in this region of mental effort,) alone can rest. Your Committee regret that so little attention is being paid to Historic Art, and still more, that the means which have been provided by the National Academy for instruction in that important technical element, upon which the successful prosecution of it depend—the knowledge of Form—have been so generally neglected. In Europe, it is not the pupils alone who frequent the life school. The masters, the veterans in study, do not hesitate to assume the porte-crayon. It is only by minute and laborious practice before the model that they acquire that majestic sweep of outline, that infallible accuracy of touch, which cause us to forget the extravagance or affectation which their works sometimes exhibit.

But if it be unreasonable at present to look for higher aims and a more elevated class of subjects, the Art-Union may at least claim from those whose pictures it buys, that they should bestow as much careful labor upon their productions, as if they were painting them for private purchasers. A regard for self interest, in the absence of higher motives, should secure this result. A picture which is to be exposed to the inspection of the world, for many months, in a public place, should be executed with even nicer attention to finish than one which is destined to occupy a quiet nook in some secluded parlor. A reputation may be speedily made or lost in a gallery so thronged as ours. But even considerations like these, have not been sufficient, in every case, to secure for us the worth of the money we have been asked to pay.

In conclusion, your Committee repeat their belief that the value and efficiency of this Association for the future, must depend, in a great degree, upon the hearty co-operation of the Artists, in its endeavors to sustain and elevate public taste. It already owes much of its past success to the cordial friendship and wise counsels of several of the most distinguished among them; and if it shall be so unfortunate as to fail in securing the confidence of others, whose talents and influence would promote its objects, it may still be able to supply this deficiency, and summon to its aid a host of friends from those youthful competitors, whose genius it may have been the first to develope, and whose names it may have raised from obscurity to fame and fortune.

On motion of PHILIP HONE, Esq., seconded by J. W. BEEKMAN, Esq., it was unanimously

G. W. AUSTEN, Treasurer.

New-York, December 24th, 1847.

On motion of JOSEPH L. WHITE, Esq., seconded by GEO. J. S. THOMPSON, Esq., the Treasurer's Report was accepted.

Ordered, That the Annual Reports and Proceedings be printed for the use of the members.

The President then announced the next order of business to be the election of a Committee of Management, in conformity with the amended Act of Incorporation. Whereupon BENJAMIN W. BONNEY, Esq., Chairman of the Nominating Committee, presented and read the following REPORT:

TO THE AMERICAN ART-UNION:

The Committee appointed at a meeting of the members of the American Art-Union, held at their rooms on the 6th December, 1847, to recommend candidates for the offices of the Association, pursuant to the requirements of the Sixth Article of the Constitution, respectfully Report:

That under the Act passed 26th November last, amendatory of the original Act of Incorporation, it is now made the duty of the Nominating Committee to select and recommend twenty-one members of the corporation to compose the Committee of Management. The officers of the Association, it is provided, shall be chosen by and from that committee.

The Register of Members of the Art-Union now comprises so many names of individuals every way eminently qualified to discharge any duty that could be required or expected of its officers, that the task of selection is rendered extremely difficult and embarrassing. The present prosperous condition of the Institution, and the great advances made by it during the past year, evidence conclusively the ability and efficiency with which the duties of its Board of Officers have been discharged; and although others possibly might have done as well as those to whom its management has been entrusted, none, it would seem, could have done better.

In this and similar institutions, essentially popular in their character, the principle of rotation in office, in the judgment of this Committee, may be advantageously recognized, and should obtain, not to the extent of removing at once an entire Board of active and efficient managers, and venturing upon the experiment of filling their places with others supposed to be equally able, but necessarily inexperienced—but so far, as at each annual election to change some of the members; and this principle to this extent appears to have been adopted in the recent amendments of the charter.

Influenced by these considerations, the Committee, deeply sensible of, and grateful for, the able services which have been rendered by the present Board of Officers, now in discharge of the duty with which they have been entrusted, nominate as members of the Committee of Management of the American Art-Union, and recommend for election the following gentlemen:

} Nominating Committee.

Chas. Webb, Esq. made a motion, which was seconded, that the Report of the Nominating Committee be accepted, and that the Committee of Management therein recommended be declared elected.

The President thereupon put the question, "Shall the vote be taken upon the names separately or collectively?" and it was decided that the vote be taken upon the names collectively.

The question was then taken, and the above Committee were duly elected.

The classification of the members of the Committee of Management was then made, according to law, as follows:

The President announced that the distribution of the Works of Art, purchased for the Institution, would then take place, and that had consented to superintend the distribution.

The ballots were then produced by the Scrutators and delivered to the Tellers, with the following certificate, which was read:
